TUC

'LOVE YOUR TUCSONIAN ... LOVE YOUR TUCSONIAN QUEEN!'

Tucsonian Queen To Be Picked

In line with its sales slogan, "Love your Tucsonian," the Tucson High School yearbook staff will crown a lovely senior girl Tucsonian Queen for 1963-64.

Ten candidates were chosen by the student body through homerooms. Virginia Coulson, Irene Felix, Carol Klimist, Ronnie McDonald, Georgia McMillan, Emmie Padgett, Marsha Ray, Ruth Reneer, Dana Schuster, and Karen Yeoman are these candidates.

An assembly is planned for the 14th of Nov. Stephen Schwarting, editor of the Tucsonian will be the MC. Skits with the theme of inducing students to buy a yearbook are to be shown. The ten candidates with their escorts will be presented. Five finalists will be selected the day after the assembly.

A Tucsonian Ball is planned for the 21st of Dec. when the queen will be crowned. This dance is sponsored by the Student Council.

Miss Kathleen Sage is advisor to the Tucsonian.

GEORGIA McMILLAN

Georgia Crowned

Late in the day of Nov. 6 whispers, shouts, tears of happiness and sadness rang throughout Senior Hall as Georgia McMillan was declared Tucson High's Senior Day Princess.

The early morning of Nov. 6 brought cheers and applause from a Senior class of more than 500 students as each of the seven finalists for

SHS Seniors Slate Musical

"Bye Bye Birdie," Salpointe can't use your kooky title. "West Side Story" won't be their story. "The Sound of Music" will fill the air, but not necessarily through hills that are alive.

Salpointe's senior class has undertaken the production of a musical, but have broken from past traditions in doing so. In years before there has always been a senior play—always non-musical.

Also, the class of '64 has chosen to write its own script. This arrangement will allow them to use any song from any musical, as well as scenes from several. Finally, the musical numbers will be arranged and choreographed by the students.

Such an all-student project will entail many months of hard work, so a Board of Consultants has been formed to take charge of the production which is scheduled for April 12.

Judy Hermes is committee consultant. She will receive ideas and requests of all committees. Mike Kelly and Frank Shallenberger are script writers. The job of technical director goes to Ed Joganic who already has several plans for transforming Salpointe's gym into a profes-

FW Sees Patriotic Assembly

"... But as he carried his slashed red battle flag into the dusky twilight of the battle he marched straight into a legend that will live as long as the American people care to remember anything about the American past." Thus began a moving and patriotic assembly.

With dignity and pride the Flowing Wells High School paid homage and respect to the American veterans of all wars on their day, Veteran's Day, November 11th. The assembly was presented to the entire student body and faculty on November 8th.

From the presentation of the flag by the Navy and Marine Corps, to the finale of martial music by the chorus and band, an attentive silence prevailed in the assembly.

Mr. Len Skrobel, writer and director of the assembly, worked diligently with the student participants in this second annual patriotic presentation. The chorus and band were under the direction of Mr. Glenn Lawson and Mr. John Hoakenson, respectively. Tom Holladay, student
